To Put on Flesh
and Increase Weight

Most people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It is all a matter of what they eat. The nature of the food. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Most thin people say this because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stiffing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "way there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay there in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare those fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something that will multiply their blood carrying capacities and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition it is well to recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is simply a careful combination of six of the most effective and powerful assimilative and flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet has been wonderfully effective and a single tablet eaten with each meal often, according to reports of users, has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by A. E. Ryan and other good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back—Adv.

'Why Swear, Dear?
Use 'Gets-It'
for Corns!'

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds. Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! Several times it's no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and

"You Wouldn't Lose Your Temper, John, If You Used 'Gets-It' For Those Corns!" Contraptions for corns. Here's some 'Gets-It'. It's just wonderful how easy, 'clear and clean' it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It takes at once. Put your sock on right over it—there's nothing to stick or roll up, form a bandage of your toe, or press on the corn. It's painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use 'Gets-It' and you'll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses.

"Gets-It" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct to E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Adv.

An Article Worth Pondering

Making Mountains of Marital Trifles

The Folly of Those Who Do Not Shake Common Sense
Into the Crucible of Life.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

A WOMAN writes a letter to me saying she is married to a man she loves dearly, and who is fond of her, and that she has a little girl devoted to her daddy. The man is good, and kind, and considerate to his wife, and is liberal about money. She has a nice home and good clothes.

Everything would be well with this fortunate woman except that her husband doesn't come home at the hour at which she thinks he should. He is a night worker, and instead of rushing home when his night's work is over, he lingers for an hour or so chatting over a late supper with his fellow workers, or goes for an automobile ride with one of them who has a car.

It doesn't appear that there is the slightest thing improper in this loitering of the husband. On the contrary, the wife says that he doesn't drink or flirt, but she doesn't approve of his not coming straight home.

So she has read the riot act to him and presented an ultimatum. If he doesn't rush from his work to his own fire-side she is going to take the child and go back to her own people. She's not going to stand his dilly-dallying on the way home. And she wants to know if I don't think that a woman is justified in leaving her husband for coming home late of nights.

I do not. I think it's a good enough excuse for divorcing him if a man is mean, and stingy, and grouchy, and cantankerous, and disagreeable to live with. But if a husband is kind, considerate, and generous, and amiable, and pleasant, wife certainly has no justification for leaving him because he wants an hour or two out of the twenty-four for his own, when he is spending the balance of his waking time toiling to make her comfortable.

Easy to Understand. Of course it's easy to understand why a woman who loves her husband likes to have him with her as much as possible. It is also easy to surmise the wifely jealousy that makes so many women grinding tyrants to their husbands, who demand that every minute that's spent upon the inside of the house should be devoted to them.

Likewise, it's easy to comprehend the fact that domestic labor is dull and monotonous, and that women resent their husbands' amusing themselves on the outside of the home while they are shut upon the inside.

The ideal state of affairs would be for every man who is married to be so domesticated that he would never desire any amusement more exciting than walking the baby, or any conversation more thrilling than his wife's rehearsal of neighborhood gossip.

Unfortunately, however, all men are not built along these domestic lines. There are men who are smothered by too much domesticity, men to whom the society of other men is just as necessary as the air they breathe.

Women appear not to be able to understand a man's desire for the society of his own sex upon occasions, although every woman knows that no matter how much she loves her husband, nor how much she enjoys his company, she would like to know if she didn't have a woman with whom to discuss things.

I hold that if a married couple cannot

HAVE PURE BLOOD

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Pure, Rich, Red Blood.

Your heart works night and day without a pause. It is the principle organ of the circulation of your blood. It is of the utmost importance that it should do its work well. The quality and quantity of your blood have much to do with its action. If this fluid is pure and abundant, your heart and other vital organs act with more energy than when it is defective in quality or deficient in quantity.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure and abundant. It is the one old reliable medicine that has been sold for forty years for purifying the blood. There is no better blood remedy, no purifier, stomach tonic, or emollient. It is the result of careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure.—Advertisement.

SEVEN SITES FOR TRAINING CAMPS ARE ALREADY APPROVED

Washington, March 25.—The plan for military camps of instruction, under the "Plattsburg idea," was officially approved by the secretary of war, today. In a formal statement to the governing committee of the Military Training Camps association of the United States, Secretary Baker assured the committee of the continued cooperation and support of the war department.

This means that it is the intention of the war department to hold camps at seven of more different points in the United States, this summer, under the instruction of regular army officers and troops. Sites are under way for holding camps at Plattsburg, Lake Champlain, N. Y.; Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga.; Ft. Huachuca, Arizona; San Antonio, Texas; Salt Lake City, Utah; Monterey, California; and American Lake, Washington, and at other points, including possibly El Paso, Texas.

Enrollment for the camps is now being made at the headquarters of the association, 21 Nassau street, New York city. It is heartily approved and endorsed the valuable and patriotic service that is being rendered to the country by the army training camps for civilians, said the secretary, in his statement. "I believe in the wisdom of these camps, not only from the military point of view but as of value to the nation, educationally, in inculcating discipline, order and good citizenship."

A Little Blossom
To Delight the Home

When it is known that in the near future the home is to be blessed with a new arrival the first thought should be for "Mother's Friend."

This is an external remedy gently applied over the stomach muscles. It makes them firm and pliant; they expand naturally without undue strain. It removes from the nerves those inducements which are responsible for much of the pain incident to the period of expectancy. It is for this reason that much of the distress such as morning sickness is avoided. All prospective fathers should see to it that the expectant mother is provided with a bottle of "Mother's Friend."

The directions are simple. Get it at any drug store. It is applied by the expectant mother herself. It neutralizes deeply and affords quick and splendid relief in a most gratifying manner and reflects a physical betterment to the nervous disposition of the lady. Don't fail to get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today and then write Dr. J. C. Salzberger Co., 412 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for a pretty little book brimful of information for expectant mothers. It is a delight to read it.

THE COAL WITH A CHARACTER

PAIN AND ITS RELIEF

By DR. E. L. ABOGADO

Our is not a nation of Stoics. We are not indifferent to pain. We abhor it. Be it ever so slight, we fume and fret until we get rid of it, because it annoys us—it interferes with our work and pleasure.

And if pain is severe—the pain of rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, gout or some acute nerve derangement, we are apt to regard it as sufficient excuse for a hurried call at the doctor's office.

In the aggregate, the American people probably suffer more annoying, useless pain than any other people on the face of the earth.

That is because of the intensity of our complex civilization—the strenuousness of our effort to secure dollars—the rapidity of our pace in pursuit of pleasure—the indulgence of our appetites.

Rich, poor, saint, sinner, stray from the straight, narrow path of nature's immutable law, until Pain is so universally present, so much of the time, that one can scarcely find a home, in any walk of life, in all this broad land, that is unacquainted with pain. Pain is so common that to see a frown is to bring forth the question, "Are you in pain?"

Despite the almost universal prevalence of pain in its various manifestations, it is a curious fact that some people dread to assume the responsibility of attempting to relieve themselves of it, almost as much as they dread the pain itself.

How fortunate therefore it is, that there is a simple and reliable remedy, which, because of its power to bring sure and speedy relief from pain in any form, may be termed a "pain specialist." Ready to minister to the need of every one who suffers pain, regardless of the primary cause, anti-kamnia tablets await your call at every drug store.

The development of most diseases is heralded by pain and fever and while in no sense a cure-all, anti-kamnia tablets are exceedingly useful in a large number of diseases.

That is because these tablets are quite as effective as reducers of fever as they are as relievers of pain.

Therefore, they have their use in any disease where pain or fever exist, either together or separately.

It is gratifying to note that prominent practitioners everywhere have prescribed anti-kamnia tablets with most satisfying results in the treatment of all kinds of headache, migraine, neuralgia, in grippe, and its after-effects; as a sedative in indigestion, gastritis, dyspepsia, hysteria, and insomnia; as an antipyretic in intermittent and malarial fevers and bronchitis and for the severe pains of toothache, sciatica, rheumatism and gout.

You know full well when you are in pain or when you feel feverish and it doesn't require a physician's advice to tell you so—nor is a prescription needed to take anti-kamnia tablets. They may be obtained in any quantity desired.

You'll find it no longer necessary to take your every ache and pain to a doctor, when you have once learned of the quick relief afforded by anti-kamnia tablets, the pain specialists, at the corner drug store.
